RIBERA
DEL DUERO

This is a wine made from Bodegas J.A. Calvo Casajús, led by José Alberto Calvo Casajús, a viticulturist and winemaker with a great family tradition in the municipality of Quintana del Pidio, within the Ribera del Duero Denomination of Origin.

Casajús Selección has been made with the grapes from the small vineyard of the boundary called La Travesaña, which currently has a controlled production of approximately 1,5 Kg of grapes per vine, 100% Tinta del País (Tempranillo) variety.

In the winery, the grapes that we have hand-picked bunch by bunch are destemmed and fermented in small stainless steel tanks with a capacity of 5,000 litres, which helps us to maintain a rigorous control of temperatures during fermentation.

Once the alcoholic fermentation is done, it goes to French and American oak barrels for its malolactic fermentation, where it continues an aging process for a period of 12 months.

TASTING NOTES

VISUAL

A Beautiful, lively and very intense garnet red colour, a sign of its good aging.

NOSE

Fresh fruity notes of well-ripened raspberries and cherries with great aromatic richness and spicy notes stand out, combined with the fine toasted notes of the barrel, achieving an excellent combination with the fruity content of the wine.

TASTING

Above all, strength stands out, a reflection of the good grape from which it comes, a feeling of fullness and youth, as well as softness. The tannins of the grape blend with those of the barrel and the aftertaste is a good reminder of red fruits, mineral touches, spices and toast. Ready for full tasting but, due to the extraordinary quality of the vintage, it will improve in the coming years.

To fully enjoy the sensations of this wine, we recommend drinking temperature between 15 and 18° C.
